NSW ARTIST WINS WA PORTRAIT PRIZE

NSW artist Sidney Tapia for his portrait of Siaosi Feiloakitau titled Through You has won the 2021 Richard Lester Prize for Portraiture, taking home the $50,000 main prize. The winners of The Lester Prize – WA's premier portrait prize, were announced tonight at the Art Gallery of WA (AGWA) where the forty finalist's works are on display for six weeks.

Sidney's work is oil on a wooden board, and small in stature – 20.3 x 20.3 cm. Siaosi is a man that established artist Sidney often speaks with at the famous Pitt Street Mall. Sidney's work was also the recipient of the inaugural Barton Family Foundation Installers' Prize of $5,000 that was announced earlier this week.

The works were judged by Alan Dodge, Clothilde Bullen, and Helen Carroll who unanimously agreed "this work 'Through you' was the standout portrait. The use of scale and tight composition was supported by the pristine surface, focus of the artist and the subject's character shines through. The rendering of the subject is incredibly sensitive and reveals the compassion of the artist towards the subject."

Sidney began learning how to cursive write at age 3. This fascination with mark making began his quest for drawing what fascinated him, such as people, cartoons and letters. After a career in skateboarding, he picked up painting again and is currently an internationally recognised artist with murals around the world and has exhibited paintings and illustrations in Australia, USA and Japan. He is also an ambassador/influencer for a number of brands.

He said "as a multi-disciplinary artist, I'm captivated by creation. I consider it a high privilege to collaborate with the subject of my works. I hope to compliment their beauty, imparting a wonderful reflection and appreciation to the viewer. On hearing the news of my win at first I felt very taken aback, literal shivers, shocked, elated, wowed, extremely thankful and very encouraged. I still feel that way now."

Other Lester Prize winners announced this evening included:

- $15,000 Tony Fini Foundation Artist Prize (selected by the forty finalists) – TBC
- $10,000 Minderoo Foundation Spirit Prize (selected by the Minderoo Foundation) Emily Song – WA Dumplings
- $5,000 Ashurst Emerging Artist : Illyampi Victor Burton - WA Mamu
- Oxlades Highly Commended : Narelle Zeller – ACT Brave new worker
- Oxlades Highly Commended : Sally Ryan – NSW Never again
